WELCOME LETTER

Dear Colleagues,

The 3rd Alliance of Molar Incisor Hypomineralization (MIH) Investigation and Treatment (AMIT), New Trends, Evolving Disciplines & Active Learning, will take place 10-13 February 2027 in Vienna, Austria.

The AMIT Symposium will kick off with an Educational Day which will address New Paradigms for Management of Immature Inflamed Pulp in Primary and Young Permanent Molars plus, Hands-On Workshops. The main program will follow with New Trends, Evolving Disciplines & Active Learning.

Our primary goal is to gather enthusiastic dentists all over the globe to update all MIH phenomena from etiology to prevention and therapy. Again, we will focus on consecutive upgrades of the 2 previous symposia's, also leading to emerging disciplines being represented by cutting edge speakers from all over the world.

Existing data are still limited, unreliable, and non-uniform. Therefore, a new item of the symposium will be to get more input from interactive round table discussions of controversial topics from prevention to concrete treatment. Also, the necessity of introducing MIH recording structures as well as „train the trainer“ camps will be extensively discussed with all speakers.

The AMIT alliance is meant for both medical and dental professionals being involved in any aspect of MIH and it is intended to act as crystallization nucleus for international collaborations.

Therefore, now this alliance is directed to the dental and medical professionals and other stakeholders associated with MIH (eg local and regional public health sector officials) to collaborate towards the targets mentioned above.

Plan to join us!!

Prof. Monty Duggal obtained his dental degree and MDS in Paediatric Dentistry from India. He then immigrated to the United Kingdom and obtained his FDSRCS from the Royal College of Surgeons of England and his PhD from University of Leeds.

He was appointed Professor and Chair of Child Dental Health at Leeds Dental Institute in 1999 where he oversaw a large postgraduate programme in Paediatric Dentistry which has international acclaim. In January 2017 he was appointed as Professor and Head of Paediatric Dentistry in Faculty of Dentistry, National University of Singapore.

Currently he is the Vice Dean and Faculty Research Director of the National University Centre for Oral Health, Singapore (NUCOHS). He has served in various senior positions and was President of the European Academy of Paediatric Dentistry from 2014-2016 and has been on the board of EAPD for last 10 years. Professor Duggal has published over 160 research papers in international journals and is author of "Restorative Techniques in Paediatric Dentistry, which has been published in 7 languages and has sold over 16,000 copies worldwide. He is also a co-author of a textbook on Dental Traumatology and has Co-Edited "Paediatric Dentistry" by Oxford, now in its 5th edition and is the most widely followed textbook in Paediatric dentistry in the world.

More recently he authored "Paediatric Dentistry at a Glance", published by Blackwell Willey. He has administered research grants totalling over seven million pounds and is an internationally recognised researcher and clinician with main research interest is Cariology and Translation Research in Clinical Paediatric Dentistry, including dental traumatology and regenerative endodontics and auto-transplantation. Apart from Paediatric Dentistry his main interest is playing and watching cricket and any time spare from work and family is devoted to this important activity.

Dr. Elias Berdouses received his Dental Degree and PhD from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Dental School, his Certificate in Paediatric Dentistry and Master's in Oral Biology from Rutgers University, New Jersey. He works in Athens at his private practice limited to Paediatric Dentistry and Orthodontics and in a private practice in Dubai, UAE.

He has worked as clinical instructor at the University of Athens, Dental School and as faculty at the Paediatric Dentistry Department of the European University College in Dubai, UAE. He has taken part in two European research projects funded by EU and in one National pathfinder study for oral health status and treatment needs in Greek population. He has published in National and International journals and has lectured in National and International congresses and seminars. His primary interest is dental informatics, caries diagnosis, prevention and dental trauma. He is also co-author in the textbook "Dental Informatics, Principles, Means and Applications".

Dr. Berdouses has served as Secretary and Vice-President of the Hellenic Society of Paediatric Dentistry and as Secretary of the European Academy of Paediatric Dentistry (EAPD). Currently he is President Elect of the European Academy of Paediatric Dentistry (EAPD).

Prof. Katrin Bekes, graduated from Dental School at Martin Luther University, Halle-Wittenberg, Germany in 2002. She submitted her DMD thesis (Dr. med. dent.) the following year and later gained her PhD in Dental Medicine (2012). She completed a Master of Medical Education at the University of Heidelberg in 2016. After graduating, Dr. Bekes was appointed Assistant Professor in the Department of Operative Dentistry and Periodontology at Martin Luther University, Halle-Wittenberg, Germany and prior to taking up her present position she was an Associate Professor in the Department of Paediatric Dentistry at that university. Prof. Bekes was General Secretary of the German Society of Paediatric Dentistry for the past 11 years. Currently, she is President of the German Society of Paediatric Dentistry, Vice President of the Austrian Society of Paediatric Dentistry, and observing councillor of the European Academy of Paediatric Dentistry for Austria. She is the editor of two books and is an editorial board member of several international journals.

Prof. David Manton, David has spent more than 30 years in private practice and academia and is currently professor of paediatric dentistry and cariology at the centre for dentistry and oral health at UMCG, University of Groningen, the Netherlands. Until 2019 he was the Elsdon Storey Chair of Child Dental Health at the University of Melbourne and a visiting consultant at the Royal Children's Hospital, Melbourne. He is involved in several collaborative and postgraduate research projects in both paediatric dentistry, cariology and orthodontics. Graduated BDSc (Melb) in 1984 and worked in general practice until 1991 when he undertook an MDSc in Paediatric Dentistry. He was dental advisor to the Federal Government from 1994 – 1996 and won the KG Sutherland Prize of the RACDS in 2007. He is on the editorial boards of the European Archives on Paediatric Dentistry and the International Journal of Paediatric Dentistry, and the advisory panel (board) of the European Caries Research Association (ORCA).

Over the past 15 years David has spoken throughout Australia, Asia and Europe and has wide ranging experience in laboratory, in situ and clinical trials of CPP-ACP, Developmental Defects of Enamel, Minimum Intervention Dentistry, the detection of carious lesions, and the use of calcium silicates in endodontics. He has published more than 120 manuscripts in peer-reviewed journals and has been cited more than 3400 times since 2015.

FOCUSED TOPICS

'Molar Incisor Hypomineralization' (MIH), is a highly prevalent condition affecting the dental health of children. The available data on prevalence of Molar Incisor Hypomineralization (MIH) is limited and at present there is no uniform and reliable way to record it. MIH is a multi-factorial condition, and there is an apprehensible need of collaboration between dentistry and other medical specialties to understand the problem unambiguously. The primary purpose of AMiT is to record the extent of the problem world-wide and to investigate the aetiology; thus, facilitating the management of MIH by appropriate prevention and treatment.

AMiT provides the opportunity to exchange distinct information and to discuss this ever-increasing oral health problem in children. It aims to bring together leading scientists from different disciplines, researchers, clinicians and dental industry partners from around the globe to debate, formulate and agree on internationally accepted guidelines on the clinical management of MIH. Discussion on traumatology will be added to this edition of the symposium.
